READINGS FOR THE WEEK

June 07, 2015

First Reading: Exodus 24:3-8

To ratify the New Covenant, a solemn rite, as defined by the sacred instruction, is celebrated. A portion of the blood of young bulls is sprinkled on the altar, representing God, and another portion is sprinkled on the people.

Second Reading: Hebrews 9:11-15

Jesus' sacrifice of His life gives Him the right to enter the heavenly sanctuary. He thus becomes the mediator of a New Covenant between God and His people.

Gospel: Mark 14:12-16, 22-26

The Last Supper is a Passover meal with the setting pre-arranged by Jesus. In this setting, He institutes both the Eucharist and the priesthood. Mark connects the meal with the heavenly banquet yet to come

FEAST OF THE BODY AND BLOOD OF CHRIST JUNE 7, 2015

Moviemakers use them all the time to tell a story. I refer to flashbacks. They give the movie audience a necessary framework and a context with which to understand the story about to unfold.

Today's feast of "Corpus Christi", or "The Body and Blood of Christ", takes us via flashback not only to Holy Thursday night last April but also to the first Holy Thursday night. For us, in the midst of commemorating Holy Week and beginning the Sacred Triduum, our thoughts could not get past such important but lesser events like the Agony in the Garden and the Washing of the Feet, both of those against Jesus' impending death the next day. The hearts of the whole Church were too heavy for a full-fledged celebration of the incomparable gift of the Holy Eucharist. But what a night, and what a gift! For that was when Our Lord first took bread and wine and identified Himself with them. Now, for us, He does the same thing through the ministry of His ordained priests.

With centuries of reflection, the Church acknowledges that this Gift of Himself is too stupendous for a hasty acknowledgement. Historically the feast came about chiefly by the labors of a 13th century Norbertine canoness by the name of Julianna of Liege, Belgium. She urged her local bishop to institute a feast which was later adopted for the universal Church by Pope Urban IV in 1264.
